HEADQUARTERS MOVED TO TRIGG

Equipments of the Mountain
Troops Shipped to Cadiz,
Thursday.

ONLY HOME BOYS HERE.

Two Camps in Trigg Ready
For the Meeting Of the Grand Jury.

A large part of the equipment of the Middleboro soldiers, stationed here since Feb. 15, was shipped to Cadiz Thursday and will be taken to the military camps at Golden Pond and Rockcastle for the summer. For the first time in several months there are now no soldiers here except the local company, and some of the soldiers of Co. D. are doing service in the other counties.

ROUNDUP IS EXPECTED.

Paducah, Ky., May 6.—Major E. B. Bassett, commanding seventeen privates and two officers, left here today on the steamer H. W. Buttorff for Rockcastle, Trigg county, where a permanent camp will be established. His detachment consisted of Maj. Wilburn and two soldiers of Company H, and Lieut. Back and fifteen soldiers of Company E. They came here last night from Murray. Major G. W. Albrecht and Capt. Givens arrived overland at Murray today, where they will get equipment and go to Golden Pond, Trigg county, and establish a camp. This camp will consist of Capt. Givens, Second Lieut. Stair and twenty-two men of Company H, and will be in command of Maj. Albrecht. The Murray camp will be in command of Lieut. Gans and about thirty men of Company C, of Owensboro. The Bowling Green company, in command of Capt. Denhardt, is stationed at Eddyville, Lyon county. These camps will be permanent for the summer. At present Brig. Gen. Roger D. Williams is making his headquarters at Eddyville. He will be in the field most of the time.

Round-up in Trigg.

It is reliably reported that the soldiers are getting in position to round up night riders in Trigg county, warrants being out for several of them.

Wanted in Two Counties.
Eddyville, Ky., May 7.—The sheriff of Lyon county arrived here this morning with thirteen men who had been arrested and taken to Marion, charged with complicity in the raid in Crittenden county, and who had given bond there.

These same men are wanted here on warrants charging them with all being in the raid on this place.

Day Riders in Henry.

Two day riders in Henry Co. went to the home of John Fishback, who was absent, and after pointing pistols at Mrs. Fishback, who appeared with a gun in her hands, and intimidating her and her children, poured oil on her tobacco bed canopy and burned it off the bed, ruining the plants. They rode away without being recognized.

Gen. Williams was very much pleased with his visit to Trigg county, and complimented the county officials very highly for their faithfulness in the discharge of their duty. Gen. Williams' men seem to be most excellent lot of young fellows, and their conduct in our county has been exemplary.—Cadiz Record.

Col. E. W. Lillard has opened headquarters at Cynthiana and detachments of troops under his command are being sent from that place on expeditions to surrounding counties.

Judge Stout charged the Scott county grand jury to investigate the sending of troops to that county and instructed them to indict officials responsible if no request for soldiers had been made by the proper authorities.

To The Citizens of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Whereas, it has come to our knowledge that our beloved Prof. W. A. Evans has accepted a position in the Paducah High School, we, the undersigned pupils of the Hopkinsville High School, resolve:

First—that we consider his loss to the Hopkinsville High School irreparable, both to the pupils as individuals and to the entire school system.

Second—that we consider it due to his efforts alone that this year has been more successful in athletics, than any previous one, and that he has been a considerable factor in mental instruction as well. That due to his efforts alone an unprecedented High School spirit has been aroused among the pupils. As an expression of this fact, we call attention to the Oratorical Contest which was the greatest success in the history of the Hopkinsville school. This idea was conceived and carried out entirely by Prof. Evans, thus opening a new epoch for the High Schools of Western Kentucky.

Third, that he has exerted a marked moral influence for good, over each pupil individually, and has raised the standard of education.

Fourth—We congratulate Prof.

Evans on his unanimous election to a splendid position in the Paducah

High School. Furthermore, we congratulate the city of Paducah upon having secured the services of Prof.

Evans in her schools.

Fifth—That we deplore the action of the Hopkinsville School Board, which made it necessary for Prof.

Evans to end his work in our midst.

Judge Cook a writ of prohibition, restraining Judge Prowes from taking any action whatever, and prohibiting him from recognizing

Mr. Renstlaw as sheriff, or placing the tax books in his hands. The books, however, were already in his hands.

And thus the matter stands. There

Sixth—That a copy of these resolutions be printed in each of the city papers, and a copy sent Prof. Evans and also the Principal of the Paducah High School.

One of The Festival Singers.

General interest centers in the soloists who have been engaged for the festival. The advance notices say of Peter J. Schlicht, the baritone:

"Mr. Schlicht is one of the best baritones in the entire South. For years he has been prominently before the public, singing in some of the most notable musical events. He is a German-American, thoroughly schooled in the art of singing. He sings as well in English as in Latin, Italian or German. In fact, he is at home in almost any language which the best singers are required to use. His voice is a sweet, rich sympathetic baritone of extraordinary compass and volume. He is a man of imposing presence and sings with an abandon that wins his audience from the start."

NEW MOVES IN SHERIFF MUDDLE

Another Injunction Suit is Started By the Renshaw Side.

WRIT OF PROHIBITION.

Again Stops Proceedings and Ties Up Things Until June Term.

Republican Sheriff, Jno. M. Renshaw, made a new move in the sheriff complication this week by applying for a new injunction restraining Democratic Sheriff David Smith from retaining the office of sheriff. In the absence of Circuit Judge Cook the injunction was set for hearing yesterday afternoon before County Judge Prowe.

Thursday Sheriff Smith's attorneys went to Eddyville and obtained from Judge Cook a writ of prohibition, restraining Judge Prowes from

taking any action whatever, and

prohibiting him from recognizing

Mr. Renstlaw as sheriff, or placing

the tax books in his hands. The books, however, were already in his hands.

And thus the matter stands. There are two sheriff's and complications are such that papers are being served by a constable.

Mr. John C. Duffy, attorney for Sheriff Smith, says the effect of the latest move is to leave Mr. Smith in possession as the only legal sheriff until the case again goes through all the courts. He will attempt to have action taken as soon as possible, beginning early in June.

DR. GILL DEAD

Venerable Cumberland Presbyterian Divine Passes Away.

Rev. J. M. Gill, the aged Presbyteran preacher, died at Elton Wednesday, after having been pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church there for nearly fifty years. He was a man of great learning and wide culture, gained by extensive travel. Dr. Gill survived his wife and three children, Mrs. Ben T. Perkins, and James and Frank B. Gill, all of Elton. The funeral was conducted by Rev. A. C. Biddle, of Hopkinsville, and the interment was in the Elton cemetery. He was more than 80 years old.

TO MAKE GOLD IN NEAR FUTURE

Inventor Says He Has
Process to Turn Out $100,-
000,000 Annually.

HE SEES A NEW EPOCH.

Transformation of Silver and
Baser Metals Into Gold
His Secret.

Has the dream of the alchemist of old been realized in the dawn of the twentieth century? asks the Chicago Record-Herald. Eighteen months hence, Rudolph M. Hunter says he will be manufacturing 24-carat gold at the rate of $100,000,000 annually. Transmutation of silver and baser metals into gold is his secret, and he declares he can produce the finer metal in quality to defy government experts as to its origin, and in quantity to keep the Philadelphia mint busy the year round.

Mr. Hunter is in Chicago attending to the final details of getting a huge plant at Chicago into operation. Behind rock walls, without windows and with but a single door to the turreted and feudal-like castle which is to house a half-million dollars' worth of delicately tuned machinery, this modern wizard promises to revolutionize the gold crop of the world.

TWO DOUBLE TRAGEDIES

In the Feud Ridden County of Breathitt.

Jackson, Ky., May 4—Trouble over the separation of his sister from John Spicer caused the fatal wounding of Ed Callahan by Spicer today, and the killing of Spicer.

It happened in the Callahan drug store at Long Creek, and as soon as Spicer had cut Callahan, Wilson Callahan, aged 17 years, avenged his father's death by shooting Spicer dead at once.

Spicer came to the drug store of the noted feudist this morning, and an altercation began over the suit for divorce which Callahan had instituted from his sister some weeks ago.

The next instant Spicer had cut Callahan's arm nearly from his body, severing an artery, from which the blood spurted upon the walls of the store.

When Jim Fugate and Dan White met on their farms, about twelve miles from here, both fired at once and Fugate was instantly killed. White was badly wounded in the face with bird shot.

The men had been on bad terms for some time. White is a cousin of Tom White, the alleged Marcus murder accomplice.

SAVED THE GIRL

But Lost His Own Life in Doing It.

Cecil Dills, a young man of eighteen, and a son of Jos. Dills, of this city, was drowned in the Kentucky river at Booneboro, nine miles from here, Sunday afternoon under very tragic circumstances, says a Winchester special:

He was taking Miss Fannie Sue Bush for a ride and attempted to go from Ford to Booneboro along the river road, which had been badly washed by the recent high water. At one of the narrowest points the horse shied at a log and sprang into the river, carrying buggy and occupant with it.

Young Dills kept the young lady up until a Mr. Easter on the other side of the river reached them in a skiff. As soon as Miss Bush was safe Dills sank and has not been seen since. The river is so high that little hopes are entertained of success. Miss Bush was uninjured save by nervous shock. The horse was drowned.

OPERATOR ARRESTED As an Accessory to Robbery of Ballard County Bank.

Paducah, Ky., May 6.—William Husbands, Sam Evitts, Ernest Elmenedorf and John Bulger were indicted by the grand jury of Ballard county for the robbery of the Ballard County Bank at Brandenburg, when $2,125 was stolen, two weeks ago. Bulger was already under arrest and Evitts was picked up yesterday, while Husbands gave himself up. Elmenedorf is out on bond for being a common gambler, and has not been picked up on the bench warrant. They will be taken to Wickliffe county.

According to the case of the prosecution, Sam Evitts, who was telephone operator, with an office above the bank room, invited B. H. Hahn, after 5 p. m., 408 S. Main St.

They rode out from Paducah in buggies, one of which was upset, and they were seen by various parties going and returning.

Harvesting Machinery

The Acme Line

“Down With The Trust”

We believe implicitly in active competition. Every farmer knows that Harvesting Machines are an absolute necessity on the modern farm. Any attempt to monopolize this necessity in his business in order to ultimately impose a tribute upon him should be forever defeated. The price of Harvesting Machines has advanced since the great trust was formed, showing without a doubt what they will do if the farmer will continue to buy from the trust, thereby leaving absolutely no competitor. Why, is it that the price of binders have advanced steadily since the trust has taken hold of them, let we say to the farmers that we will furnish them with one of the best machines built, binders, mowers and rakes, at the price we sold the same size machine five years ago. The “ACME” pays dividends on no watered or dead stock. We have a full line of repairs for these machines, also have the best binder on the market and it is not made by the trust. We want every farmer in Christian and adjoining counties to come to our place of business and examine these machines and see if they can find a fault. We have Binders 7 and 8 foot cut, tongue and transport truck. Mowers, 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ , 5 and 6 foot cut. Hay Rakes 9 and 10 foot. The best Binder Twine on the market, and not made by the trust.

THE WEATHER.

FOR KENTUCKY—Generally fair Saturday.

Judson Harmon, Cleveland's Attorney General and Bryan's friend, has been nominated for Governor of Ohio. Keep your eye on Ohio.

A Marion dispatch says six soldiers entered the hot bed of the night riders in Caldwell county Tuesday night and arrested two apiece, with an extra one for bad luck.

The pardon seekers have made it so hot for Gov. Wilson, even announcing for him that Powers and Howard had been pardoned, that he has gone East for a week and announces that he will not decide the matter for two or three weeks.

Double-barreled trouble has overtaken some of the citizens of Caldwell county, who are being sued for $12,500 in McCracken and are under bond for night riding in both Crittenden and Lyon counties, with Trigg and Christian to hear from. Boys, you can't blame us. We told you so, more than a year ago.

The Court of Appeals has reversed the appealed case of the Kentucky Journal vs. Noel Gaines, from Anderson county, and ordered a new trial, on the ground that Judge J. Frank Peake should have vacated the bench. Grains recovered judgment for $2,000 for libel.

The Record says the business house of J. W. McKinney and the second floor above the Mayers building adjoining will be converted into a hotel of fourteen rooms by June 1 and it will probably be conducted by Mr. Johnson, at one time landlord of Hotel Latham.

The Messenger continues to harp upon the idea that the West Side Cemetery is to be turned into a park at heavy expense to the city. This popular error is due principally to the misinformation published in the Messenger itself. The council has appointed a committee to clean up the cemetery and erect a monument to the old settlers by popular subscription. That is about all and in due time the committee will attend to the work. In the meantime, an inspection of the city council's records would doubtless remove the mistaken idea the Messenger seems to entertain.

Sunday School Convention.

The annual convention of the County Sunday School Association will be held at Fairview June 5. A strong program is being prepared, and every effort is being made to make this the best convention ever held in the county. E. A. Fox and T. C. Gebauer, state secretary and field worker, will represent the State work. They are thoroughly conversant with every detail of Sunday School work and their talks will be practical and helpful. Some of the best local talent will also be utilized.

The secretary is now gathering reports from the Sunday Schools of the county, and every superintendent should send in his report and contribution promptly. Each school in the county should appoint one or two delegates to represent the school officially. In addition to these as many others as possible should attend.

For any information address the county president, C. E. Dudley, or the county secretary, Mrs. C. D. McComb, Pembroke, Ky.

A Negro Given the Coveted Place Sought By Veteran Leader.

Louisville, Ky. May 8.—After having controlled the organization and seated their delegates in all save a few of the contested counties during an all-night session of the Committee on Credentials, the Taft men were apparently about to put their slate of delegates at large through with a hitch when their programme was endangered and the slate at one time apparently broken.

Instead of winding up the business of selecting delegates at large to the Republican National convention in an hour or two there was a session lasting from 10 a. m. until 5:30 o'clock, when, after hours of disorder, wire-pulling and suspense, the Taft men finally won out and elected the following delegates at large instructed for Taft to the Chicago convention: Gov. A. E. Wilson, Louisville; Judge A. R. Burman, Richmond; W. Marshall Bullitt, Louisville; E. D. Lane, col., Louisville.

Both delegations from Christian county were seated with the votes divided.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains long ago produced roots and herbs for every ailment, and cured disease with the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes: "I have been suffering with the most terrible pain in my right side for two years. I have seen many physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I met Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has relieved me. I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restore health and strength. It is a worth mountain of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

HARRY TANDY

Bright Young Journalist and Politician Passes Away.

Harry G. Tandy died yesterday morning at his home in Paducah after an illness extending over 10 or three years. Last fall his condition improved greatly and he appeared to be on the road to complete recovery, but recently a turn came for the worse and he saw to the end. His trouble was headache. Mr. Tandy was a Hopkville boy, a son of Capt. D. A. Tandy, and was born in June, 1871. He learned the printer's trade in the Kentuckian office and afterwards entered college in Paducah. He gained prominence in politics and was connected with the Democratic administration at Frankfort in 1903 until his health failed, first Assistant Secretary of State and then as deputy superintendent of schools.

He was of a bright, happy disposition and was very popular throughout Western Kentucky. He leaves a wife and one child, a little girl. The interment will take place in Paducah this afternoon.

The toast list was not as long as usual, but it was decided to shorten the program a little. What was lacking in quantity of oratory was made up in quality. The speakers on the program all acquitted themselves most happily. Following is the program:

Pres. H. Clay Smith, Toastmaster.

Doe vs. Richard Roe.

President Smith was at his best as tomaster, introducing each of the speakers with some witty and graceful remarks.

Mr. Trimble made his first appearance as an after-dinner talker in Hopkinsville, and his speech was listened to with much interest. It was able, thoughtful and delivered in a pleasing manner. The young lawyer made a decided hit.

Rev. Mr. Branch turned out to be a humorist of the first water. His speech was a succession of good things, delivered with a rapid flow of choice language, anecdote and poetry, mingled with suggestions as to what Hopkinsville most needs to make the city "Hike."

Mr. Stites is an old hand at the bellows, though he essayed the part of a callow youth. He talked sentiment, recited poetry, poked fun at the married people and distinguished himself in many ways. He finally finished without any dishes being thrown at him.

Mr. Duffy was overcome by his characteristic modesty and "handed out" some hot ones, that is to say he held his roll of manuscript in his hand to make sure that the audience could not escape.

After he recovered from his stage fright, from which he has suffered for perhaps twenty years when he is prevented from making a long speech, he finished telling all he knew just before a riot was started.

Judge W. F. Fowler, who was to speak on the subject "If," was detained in Louisville and President Smith called upon Chas. M. Meacham to take his place, who responded briefly, breaking up the gathering in about five minutes.

The carriages were called at 11:50 and the happy crowd dispersed.

Those present were:

MOVING PICTURES.

Experiment to Show Both Sides of a Coin at Once.

The beginning of moving pictures was in this wise: Sir John Herschel, after a dinner, in 1826, asked his friend, Charles Babbage, how he would show both sides of a shilling at once. Babbage replied by taking a shilling from his pocket and holding it to a mirror.

This did not satisfy Sir John, who set the shilling spinning upon the dinner table, at the same time pointing out that if the eye is placed on a level with the rotating coin both sides can be seen at once. Babbage was so struck by the experiment that the next day he described it to a friend, Dr. Fenton, who immediately made a working model.

On one side of a disk was drawn a bird, on the other side an empty bird cage, when the card was revolved on a silk thread the bird appeared to be in the cage. This model showed the persistence of vision upon which all moving pictures depend for their effect. The eye retains the image of the object seen for a fraction of a second after the object has been removed. This model was called the thaumatrope.

Next came the zootrope, or wheel of life. A cylinder was perforated with a series of slots and within the cylinder was placed a band of drawings of dancing men. On the apparatus being slowly rotated the figures seen through the slots appeared to be in motion. The first systematic photographs taken at regular intervals of men and animals were made by Maybridge in 1877.

Sophy of Kravonia.
By ANTHONY HOPE.
Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda."
Copyright, 1908. Anthony Hope
Hawkins.

In vain will the readers of this tale of romantic love and brilliant daring search the maps of the world for the picturesque land of Kravonia, wherein lovely, fascinating Sophy and her mysterious Red Star played their parts. This much we may tell him before he embarks on his voyage to Kravonia. But we may assure him that when he reluctantly parts with Sophy, sometime scullery maid of Morpetham, Essex, England, later spiritualistic medium of Paris, France, and still later of high rank in Slavonia and Volsci, in Kravonia, the country of her adoption will be to him, like Zenda and Graustark, more real than are many of the smaller, actual kingdoms of the earth. Sad and tragic in some of its aspects is the love story of Sophy of Kravonia, but its pathos is so lightened by devoted loyalty, hairy bravery and tender, self-sacrificing affection that at the end the reader will surely feel its tellings has not been unworthy of the master hand of its famous chronicler.

Chapter One

GROUCH? That is the name, find in the interest of euphony it is impossible not to regret the fact. Some say it should be spelled "Grouch," which would not at all meet with the approval of the pronunciation class beyond doubt—the word must rhyme with "crouch" and "couch." Well might Lady Meg Duddington swear it was the ugliest name she had ever heard in her life! Sophy was not of a very different opinion, as was the boy, Enoch Grouch. She was Grouch on both sides, unkind and un-redeemed—for Enoch Grouch married his uncle's daughter Sally and he as his first child Sophy. Two other children were born to him, but they died in early infancy. Mrs. Grouch did not live to see the birth of her little angel. She was herself laid to Hopkinson churchyard when Sophy was no more than five years old. The child was left to the sole care of her father, a man who had married late for his class—indeed, late for any class—and was almost as poor as his master. Grouch held a very small farm, lying about half a mile behind the church. Probably he made a hard living of it, for the only servant in his household was a slip of a girl of fifteen, who was presumably both too cook and act as maid to look after the master and Sophy. Nothing is remembered of him in Hopkinson. Perhaps there was nothing to remember—nothing that marked him off from thousands like him. Perhaps the story of his death, which lives in the village traditions, blotted out the inconspicuous record of his laborious life.

Hopkinson lies within twenty-five miles of London, but for all that it is a sequestered and primitive village. It contained, at this time at least, but three houses with pretensions to gentility, the rest being a cluster of hovels or houses across the village street, facing the rectory. At the end of the street stood the hall in its grounds. This was a handsome red brick house in a spacious garden. Along one side of the garden there ran a deep ditch, the water of which ran into a ditch, between it and a large meadow, was a path which led to the church. Thus the church stood behind the hall grounds, and, again, as has been said, beyond the church was Enoch Grouch's modest farm, held by Mr. Brownlow, the rector. The church path was the favorite resort of the villagers, and deservedly, for it was shaded and beautified by a fine double row of old elms forming a stately avenue to the humble little house of worship.

On an autumn evening in the year 1853 Enoch Grouch was returning from the village, where he had been to buy tobacco. His little girl was with him. It was wild weather. Rain had been falling for full twenty-four hours, and in the previous night a mighty bough had fallen across the path. As they went to the village her father had induced Sophy with a ride on the bough and she begged him to let her off at the turn of the crossroads, just as they came to the hall grounds. The master was a kind man, more kind than wise, as it proved, on this occasion. He set the child astride on the thick end of the bough, then went to the other end, which was much try to shake the bough and please his master with the imitation of a saw. The fallen bough suggested no danger to his slow moving mind. He leaned down toward the bough, with outstretched hands. Sophy no doubt watched his doings with excited interest, while the other children ran among the great branches over their heads. Enoch tried to move the bough, but failed. In order to make another effort he fell on his knees and bent his back over it.

At this moment there came a loud crash, which rent the rectory grounds and the dining room in Woodbine square, the small house opposite.

"There's another tree gone!" cried

Boss Williamson, the rector's second son, who was giving his retriever an evening run.

He raced through the rectory gate, across the road and into the avenue, where he saw the garden gate of Woodbine open and the ten-year-old son of a widow named Robins, who lived there, came out in full speed. Seeing Enoch just ahead of her, she called out, "Did you hear?"

He knew her voice—they were play and answered without looking back. "Yes, isn't it fun? Keep outside the trees—keep well in the meadow!"

"Stuff!" she shouted, laughing. "They don't fall every minute, silly."

Running as they exchanged these words, they came to where the wood, or rather the bough, had fallen. A tragic sight met their eyes.

The second bough had caught the unlucky farmer just on the nape of his neck and had driven him down face forward, on to the first. He lay with his neck close pressed between the two boughs, his arms spread wide, his head in the dormer. His face was bad to look at.

He was quite dead, and apparently death must have been instantaneous. Sobered and appalled, the boy and girl stood looking from the terrible sight to each other's faces.

The girl's voice was broken.

"I expect so," the boy answered. Neither of them had seen death before.

The next moment he raised his voice and shouted, "Help, help!" then laid hold of the upper bough and strove with all his might to move it. The girl, a shrill cry for assistance and then lent a hand to his efforts, but before they could move the great log.

Up to now neither of them had perceived Sophy.

Next on the scene was Mr. Brownlow, the master of the hall. He had been in a hasty dash to the crash of the bough. Of that he took no heed. Noticing that the two had save heave a sigh over the damage to his cherished elms. But when the cries for help reached his ears, with a prudential and considerate mind, he took a hasty tour of the town, and, though he was elderly and stout, dropped into the ditch, clambered up to it, and came where the dead man and the children were. As he passed the drawing room windows he called out to his wife, "Mrs. Brownlow, come up at the square with the butler, follow him."

"I'll get a horse, sir," said the butler. His master nodded, and he ran off.

Something moved on the path about a yard from the thick end of the lower bough.

"Look there!" cried Julia Robins. A little girl followed with an exclamation. Mrs. Brownlow darted to the spot. The child lay there with a cut on her forehead. Apparently the impact of the second bough had come down on the first, so it appeared. Sophy had been jerked from her seat into the air and had fallen back on the path, striking her head on a stone. Mrs. Brownlow plucked her up, wiped the blood from her brow and saw that the injury was slight, but not serious.

"It's his little girl," said Julia Robins. "The little girl with the mark on her cheek, please, Mrs. Brownlow."

"Poor little thing! Poor little thing!" Mrs. Brownlow murmured. She knew that death had snatched the child of her heart and protection.

The butler now came back with a horse and two men, and Enoch Grouch's body was taken into the saddle room at the hall. Mrs. Brownlow followed the procession. Sophy still in her arms. At the end of the avenue she spoke to the boy and girl.

"Go home, babies. Tell your father, and get him to come to the hall. Good night, girls. Tell your mother, and don't cry any more. The poor man is with God, and I shan't let this wife come to harm."

She was a childless woman, and as she spoke she kissed Sophy's wounded forehead.

Then she went into the hall grounds, and the boy and girl were left

ROOSTER KILLS BABY.

Sank Spur Deep Into Prostrate Child's Skull.

Nashville, Tenn., May 7.—Spurred in the head and killed by a rooster was the extraordinary fate of the 15-months-old baby, Maxie Crockett, Jr., of Lewisburg, Tenn., a few days ago. The child was out in the yard, running after chickens, when he fell, and before he could get up he was attacked by a rooster. The rooster drove his spur through the child's skull, death resulting in a short time.

Pekin, China, May 7.—The Pekin Gazette, the oldest newspaper in the world, has issued what will probably be its last number. It will be succeeded by the Government Gazette, which will be larger and more modern in appearance and will be the official organ of the Chinese Government. The Pekin Gazette was established in 911 A. D. and had a large circulation at a time when Anglo-Saxons were little more than barbarians and America was inhabited only by savages.

ENGINE IS WRECKED.

Night Riders Again at W. E. Wall's Home in Montgomery County.

Clarksville, Tenn., May 8.—An engine owned by W. E. Wall was blown up with dynamite last night near Fredonia and a threatening letter signed "Night Riders" was left near the engine for Mr. Wall. It is reported that an envelope bearing the name of a well known young man of that community was found near the engine. Mr. Wall has suffered severely at the hands of his enemies. Last year his store and tenement house were burned, and his plant beds scraped. Last Saturday night his brother, Henry Wall, who lives on an adjoining farm, had his stable and barn burned.

It has come to my notice that I am associated with Mr. James L. Long. Such report is not true. I have opened an office strictly on my own footing, not being associated with any individual, firm, or corporation. I have over ten years of practical experience contracting and building, in the operation of a retail lumber business, over eight years of practical experience in Architectural Draughting. I am open for a clean cut business proposition. I am in a position to serve my clients with a knowledge of the business, with economy, with honesty and fairness to both owner and contractor.

Call and let's talk the matter over.

Respectfully,
T. J. Hopkins, Architect,
Candler Block—Hopkinsville, Ky., this office.

ELOPERS HAPPY

Mother Relented, and They Were Wedded Saturday.

Dave J. McCormick and Jessie Edens, the youthful couple who were stopped here last week en route to Nashville, were permitted to marry by the girl's mother, Mrs. Cyndy Sisk, after they returned to Webster County. On the way back Mrs. Sisk agreed to let them be married in one year, but some tears were shed and the couple pleaded so earnestly that the mother finally relented after they reached home and gave her consent to an immediate wedding. They were married at Dixon last Saturday. The groom is 18 and the bride 14 years old. They wrote a joint letter Wednesday to Chief of Police Roper, signed "D. J. and J. E. McCormick," thanking him for the treatment given them here.

Opening of the Show Season.

Springtime is always welcomed as it brings us the beautiful flowers, sunshine, and one of the greatest pleasures of our lives at all stages—the circus. The latter has been the most popular form of public amusement from the days of ancient Rome to this modern age of hustle and commercialism.

It has always been, and always will be, the most healthy and moral form of amusement for the children as well as grown-up people, as it affords not only excitement, wonder, mirth and enjoyment, but also education, as it demonstrates man's superiority to, and his influence over, the animal creation. The Gentry Brothers' Famous Shows United which will open here on May 16th, are well known all over the world as the highest class and finest of all the trained animal shows traveling. For twenty-five years, Gentry Brothers have devoted their entire time and attention to, and have expended enormous amounts of money on the training of elephants, dogs, ponies, monkeys and other animals, until they have presented to the public the most wonderful and greatest educational exhibition ever seen, which has delighted countless thousands and made the Gentry Shows known throughout the civilized world.

Some of the features of the Show which will be seen here are the funniest and most comical clowns, elephants ever seen; Kokoma, the trained wise monkey doctor; Dick, the high diving dog; a troupe of trained monkey gymnasts and acrobats; a herd of performing elephants and over 200 cute and tiny ponies who do all kinds of tricks, to say nothing of the famous troupes of performing dogs, and the most comical of all, the monkey fire brigade.

Aside from these features they have secured a number of feature acts by the star performers of the day, this part of the programme being headed by the Five Peerless Petits, a family of marvelous acrobats, lately the wonders of Europe, and the Twaney Troupe in classic statutory posings, who have been brought to this country for this season only, for the Gentry Brothers' Shows.

Everything with the circus is, like all the acts, entirely new, and combined shows present a street parade nearly a mile long for grandeur and glittering gorgeousness will eclipse any similar pageant ever seen here.

LOW PRICES

Will Prevail During the May Music Festival.

There seems to be a lack of information among the people generally as to the prices that will be charged during the May Music Festival. The management has announced the following exceedingly low prices, considering the high class of the attraction. Season tickets, good for the entire five performances, $2.50, single performance tickets, 50c, 75c and $1. The chart for reserving the season tickets is now on display at the Anderson-Fowler Drug Company's store and already a great number of seats have been marked off, showing that people who are wise are taking advantage of the cheap rates offered by the season tickets and also the opportunity to get choice seats before the real rush begins. The single performance tickets will go on sale on May 13. Every Elk is hard at work selling tickets and everybody else who is connected with the festival in any way is following their example.

All the newspapers in this region have been given large advertisements of the big event, and everywhere the greatest interest and enthusiasm is being worked up. From all indications a monster crowd will be here on the three days selected for the festival, and well they might, for this will be Creator's only appearance in this end of the state and therefore the only opportunity of the people to him.

No extensive press notices are required to introduce Creator and his matchless band to the people of this region. Although he has been here only once, this being last spring, he was heard by a crowd which filled the big tabernacle and everyone was more than delighted with him.

Creator generally, in single programs, devotes most of his program to classical music but at the May Music Festival he will play all classes of music from the raggiest rags to the most difficult works of the masters. Among his repertoire will be the "Merry Widow" music which has created such a furor in the east.

Soprano Soloist With

Creator and his Band.

Mme. Joanna Barilli, the prima donna soprano, who will be here May 19-23, who is strongly identified with the success of this organization, has been its only vocal soloist for several years. She is a woman of great beauty, queenly bearing and charming stage presence, and possesses a voice of the rarest beauty and purity. She sings soprano, with a quality of the highest charm, clear, pure, flexible, and of remarkable smoothness throughout.

Mme. Barilli's voice shows high cultivation, the effect of her early training and subsequent studies. She is a member of the famous Barilli-Patti family, has studied with the best Italian teachers, and thoroughly understands the art of singing.
